The Developers and Builders Alliance has set in motion its unique approach to the exchange of information and expertise among its international affiliates. The DBA has charted an aggressive expansion path that will engage markets in every continent. Utilizing an electronic platform, members from every corner of the globe will be able to participate in webinars to discuss pertinent and current industry topics, as well as easily accessing news, publications, and the complete and updated membership database for targeted business development.

We are driven by a commitment to quality and dedicated to the achievement of our members' objectives. DBA's strategic insight brings unprecedented opportunities our way. The number of associates will be expanded with a new membership fee in order to maximize networking and business opportunities. We are also presently participating in industry events globally to bring pertinent information to all interested members, thus promoting interaction and stimulating economies.

DBA is also making strides in the advancement of Green Markets in building and related industries with the mindset that all its members should be afforded the opportunity to position themselves as powerful certified green companies. As part of the membership, DBA will provide members with education and information on how to adopt eco-friendly business practices. Further, members whose companies currently conduct ecological business operations will be validated through a formal letter of acknowledgement and listed as a company in compliance with international regulations.

My message to you is the importance of finding ways to cooperate closely within our industry in international relations. We must ensure that the way that we manage relations is up to the challenges we face. But we are stronger and wiser when we address them together. By uniting our efforts with our colleagues in other countries to find the solutions, ...we can collectively create a better quality of life for each of our citizens.
